Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 29 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rain spreading east tonight. Some heavy showers on Friday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Becoming increasingly cloudy through the evening with outbreaks of rain spreading east after midnight. The odd heavy burst in central parts by Friday morning but largely dry with sunny spells in the west. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Friday:
More persistent rain soon clearing northeast to leave a day of bright or sunny intervals and showers, these heavy and thundery in places. Increasingly windy, especially in coastal areas. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
A mixture of sunny spells and showers, widespread and heavier on Saturday but rather isolated on Sunday and Monday. Largely dry and clear by night. Temperatures close to average.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.